Kitchen Renovations

When it comes to costs, the unknown can be a big restriction for many people from achieving their dream kitchen. As a result, many people talk themselves out of a kitchen reno before they even know what it costs. But kitchen renovations are a lot easier when you understand the costs and have a plan.

In this guide, you will learn the common features and costs of mid-range and upscale remodels so you can better prepare and budget for your dream kitchen.

Costs are based from past projects and are only intended to be used as a guide. For a better Estimate contact us today for a free in home consultation.

Midrange Remodels

A midrange reno is a remodel for the long term — a decision to mold the kitchen to your lifestyle, and improve the style, function, and value of your kitchen for years to come.

A midrange remodel usually consists of a slight reconfiguration of the layout of your kitchen. Maybe the fridge has always been in an inconvenient part of your kitchen — now is the time to move it! Not to mention, this kind renovation includes new cabinetry, fresh finishes and paints, upgraded countertops, inspired fixtures, and more often than not new flooring.

Upscale Remodels

An upscale remodel is a larger investment for those who are committed to top-of-the-line materials, full reconfiguration or wall removals and/or a larger footprint of the renovation space.

This type of remodel may include a full reconfiguration of your kitchen space, as well as upgrading your cabinetry, finishes and paints, counter-tops, fixtures, and appliances with new materials of the highest quality. This may include glass-front cabinetry, specialty lighting, a butler's pantry, bar cabinetry or other customization and unique features to improve your quality of life.
